Detoxification Through Reflexology

Reflexology as a form of natural healing, has been around for over 3,000 years. Its main purpose is to detoxify the body's systems and organs, enabling them to work more efficiently and effectively for you. However, the treatment is also very relaxing and soothes away aches and pains. Every part of the body from the eyes to the organs and spinal column have a reflex point on the feet. The Reflexologist systematically works around the body, through your feet, looking for areas of toxins, which are then manipulated and broken up. Having a treatment once a week for a few weeks can bring about renewed energy and vitality alongside of more healthy working organs. It can be beneficial to all ages including children with behavioral and cognitive problems.
